Help preserve the past

Volunteer site stewardship on-line training workshop, May 27, 2023, 9:00 am to 3:00 pm

This training is the first day of a two-day workshop to train California volunteer site stewards. This free Zoom meeting lasts six hours, including a one hour lunch break. Although there is no cost, you must register at <www.cassp.org> starting May 1. Contents of the on-line meeting include archaeology background, awareness of prehistoric and historic resources, safety, legal protections for archaeology, and Native American concerns.

The second day of the workshop is an in-person, small group, field training that will be offered to those who attended the first day of this or earlier online meetings. It will be scheduled during the following weeks, as conditions allow, at Inyo National Forest at BLM Ridgecrest Field Office. The second day requires a separate registration, a signed confidentiality agreement concerning sensitive site locations, and a $25 fee.

CASSP training workshop held at Clear Lake State Park in 2014.

Registration opens on May 1. Please register with the link on the first page at <www.cassp.org>, where you will find additional information about the workshop. Send any questions to Beth Padon at <bpadon@sitestewardship.org>. This workshop is funded by the generosity of donors to Partners for Archaeological Site Stewardship, a 501(c)(3) non-profit corporation located in Long Beach, California. We also thank the Inyo National Forest and the BLM Ridgecrest Field Office for their support.
